

MEMBERSHIP TERMS CHECKLIST V2:

MOBILE V2 - LONG GROUP

Ashley Englund | November 21, 2019

The items are organized into groups. Users have to check off (acknowledge) each group. Once they have checked off a group (= they have read all of the items in that group), the next group is displayed. A progress bar at the top shows them they progress they have made.

- Displaying items in groups keeps users from being overwhelmed by 1 long list of all of the items.
- Users can only navigate to the next group after they have checked off (acknowledged) the current group they see.
- Users cannot skip a group.

If the list of items is longer than can be displayed, we need a way to ensure that they scroll down and read all items. Putting the checkbox and "Next" button at the bottom might help with that. But it also might frustrate people that don't scroll down to see them.

The "Next" word and icon replaces "If you have any questions..." once the checkbox is checked. The "If you have any questions...." is both helpful and it is a placeholder so that "Next" element can be displayed in that same space without suddenly changing the size of the entire scroll element and causing a jump or visual disruption.

MOBILE V2 - GROUP COMPLETE

The items are organized into groups. Users have to check off (acknowledge) each group. Once they have checked off a group (= they have read all of the items in that group), the next group is displayed. A progress bar at the top shows them they progress they have made.

- Displaying items in groups keeps users from being overwhelmed by 1 long list of all of the items.
- Users can only navigate to the next group after they have checked off (acknowledged) the current group they see.
- Users cannot skip a group.

When the checkbox has been checked for a group:

- the progress bar at the top is updated
- a check appears next to the group title
- the "Next" word and icon appears at the bottom
